I mainly cover two hospitals, one of which has been using the Epic electronic medical record (EMR) system for a little over a year, and another that switched over to Epic just last week. In my experience, rolling out a new EMR system comes with a lot of growing pains - new workflows, new tricks, and new quirks.

While Epic is known to support some of the largest healthcare systems in the world, they have evolved to provide products and services that also cater to small and mid-sized medical practices. But with a reputation of being amongst the highest cost EHR systems for large organizations, Epic is working to overcome this perception to target small to mid-sized medical practices.
