Physica - Nature's Healing Power. Hildegard of Bingen wrote Physica during the period 1150 to 1158. For those of us interested in Hildegard of Bingen medicine, or German herbal remedies in general, Physica and Causae et Curae are valuable primary resources. Both were originally combined in "Liber subtilitatum diversarum naturarum creaturarum" (the "Book of the Subtleties of the Diverse Nature of Creatures").

Hildegard of Bingen OSB (German: Hildegard von Bingen; Latin: Hildegardis Bingensis; 1098 - 17 September 1179), also known as Saint Hildegard and the Sibyl of the Rhine, was a German Benedictine abbess, writer, composer, philosopher, Christian mystic, visionary, and polymath of the High Middle Ages. Hildegard of Bingen (also known as Hildegarde von Bingen, l. 1098-1179 CE) was a Christian mystic, Benedictine abbess, and polymath proficient in philosophy, musical composition, herbology, medieval literature, cosmology, medicine, biology, theology, and natural history. She refused to be defined by the patriarchal hierarchy of the church and, although she abided by its strictures, pushed the established boundaries for women almost past their limits.

This book which consists of nine books (plants, elements, trees, stones, fish, birds, animals, reptiles and metals) can be considered the foundation of Hildegard's medicine. Hildegard explains the nature and benefits/dangers of each creature and element to human beings. Physica is very easy to read unlike her books on theology which require background knowledge of Christianity. As a naturopath who practices Hildegard's medicine, I refer to this book quite from time to time.
