MAJDANEK. A group of twenty of us were called to a part of the camp where barracks were to be built. One of the murderers had a steel plumbing pipe, about four inches in diameter and fourteen feet long. They told everybody to straighten some lumber piles, and I could tell something was going to happen.

Directed by Jim Mickle. With Boyd Holbrook, Cleopatra Coleman, Bokeem Woodbine, Michael C. Hall. A Philadelphia police officer struggles with a lifelong obsession to track down a mysterious serial killer whose crimes defy explanation.

Netflix's In the Shadow of the Moon is most effective when having fun with its time-travel premise, but the film simply doesn't work when injecting politics and social commentary into proceedings.

"In the Shadow of the Moon" isn't effective as sci-fi, action, noir, mystery, or even social commentary, even though it has elements of all of the above. What saves it from complete disaster is Mickle's technical skill—he washes the film in nice blues and grays with cinematographer David Lanzenberg , although even that feels like it ...
