For 100 years, the Isle of Man Tourist Trophy races have been the world's most dangerous organized sporting event. As one of thirty thousand fans who attended the annual spectacle, Mark Gardiner harbored no illusions about his own skill or bravery. He was, however, an avid motorcyclist for whom the race represented a boyhood dream. He went home, quit his job, sold everything he owned, and returned to the Island to race there himself. Riding Man is the account of an Everyman, struggling to qualify for -- and survive -- the TT races. If you're a dreamer, the lesson in this book is that the pursuit of any worthwhile goal involves risks, rewards and, almost inevitably some regrets. If you're not a dreamer, the lesson is more important: the deepest regrets are always over risks not taken.

Language Education and Emotions presents innovative, empirical research into the influence of emotions and affective factors in language education, both in L1 and in foreign language education. It offers a comprehensive overview of studies authored and co-authored by researchers from all over the world. The volume opens and ends with "backbone" contributions by two of the discipline's most reputed scholars: Jane Arnold (Spain) and Jean-Marc Dewaele (United Kingdom). This book broadens our understanding of emotions, including well-known concepts such as foreign language anxiety as well as addressing the emotions that have only recently received scientific attention, driven by the positive psychology movement. Chapters explore emotions from the perspective of the language learner and the language teacher, and in relation to educational processes. A number of contributions deal with traditional, school-based contexts, whereas others study new settings of foreign language education such as migration. The book paints a picture of the broad scale of approaches used to study this topic and offers new and relevant insights for the field of language education and emotions. This book will be of great interest to academics, researchers and postgraduate students in the field of language education, psycholinguistics, sociolinguistics, and applied linguistics.

This book analyses the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) as a powerful actor in International Relations by examining how the ASEAN community has evolved, looking specifically at its relationship with the EU with regards to human rights. The book adds to important contemporary debates within constructivist theory, shedding light on the need for 'critical' constructivism that emphasises language and contestation and what that may entail. On an empirical level, it challenges the idea of an 'EU-centrism,' demonstrating how ASEAN is the major driving force behind its human rights and community aspirations, as well as within the ASEAN-EU relationship. Furthermore, this book engages with the introspection surrounding constructivism by addressing the trouble with 'norms,' and instead unpacking the relationship between ASEAN and the EU to show language power in play. In particular, the book looks at how language, or rather coercive language, helps us 'see' contestation in action, something that researchers sympathetic towards the idea of ASEAN's 'resistance' have been unable to show through a focus on norms. Tracing the evolution of the ASEAN community and human rights aspirations in a new light, showing how exactly the EU remains an inspiration, but not a model, and more interestingly how ASEAN demonstrates power in the relationship, the book will be of interest to academics working on Asian Studies, European Studies, International Relations Theory and human rights.

WHAT THE REVIEWERS AND READERS SAY: (The following reviews are from the Barnes and Noble and Amazon sites) The Night Boy is really good Pulp Fiction, November 15, 2004 FOUR out of FIVE Stars Reviewer: Laslow Jordan (United Kingdom) Finally some real pulp fiction and it's good too. Preddy doesn't try to articulate every thought of every character like so many writers do; instead he leaves some space for the readers' imaginations. The Night Boy's rapid pacing is as visual and as exciting as a good movie. The best one-night stand I've had in years! The Night Boy is a real page burner, November 15, 2004 FIVE out of FIVE Stars Reviewer: Jay Michaels (California) - I read a lot of thrillers but I had to read The Night Boy twice as Preddy conjures up some clever misdirection, some just a word, that turn on a dime. It's funny too. In fact I found some of the humorous passages, like "you can't get pregnant from spit", creeping into my thoughts days later. The Night Boy is a real page burner that sticks with you like mashed potatoes! The Night Boy has something for everyone! FIVE out of FIVE Stars Reviewer: Carl Connors@New Book Tattler, November 19, 2004, The Night Boy is a novella with a big bang. From the intriguing first line to the bold final scene this fresh tale has something for everyone. Sheryn is the personification of insecurity, vanity, and self-absorption; her sidekick is a witty guy hiding a dark side of his own. The two good cops are horny for each other in a sweet way, but end up breaking the rules, and the heroine is a psychopath with a big secret. Preddy's perpetrator, the Night Boy, is a deliberate, cunning killer and something more. If viewed from the inside out Preddy may be using the Night Boy character as a metaphor for the darkness, the Night, which lives in everyone. Or maybe not. The premise is now and unique and the language is active and fresh. The Night Boy is an excellent first book for Pred- dy and worth every penny. Night Boy has arrived FOUR out of FIVE Stars Reviewer: Weston Allred, a journalist, November 12, 2004, The Night Boy is a subsonic thriller that's quite humorous too if you can believe it. Pred- dy pokes fun at pathetic obsession, convenient love, and romantic expectations all the while serving up a tidy thriller. The ending is a real pisser. The Night Boy rips and I want more! Great Pulp Fiction FIVE out of FIVE Stars Review- er: Frank Long, @ebookcritique November 12, 2004, The cover says that it is a 'tight thriller bathed in sarcastic social commen- tary and sly dark humor', what it is is a modern and warped social commentary and dark humor wrapped in a sick and slick thriller! Excellent language, some pretty gritty, and scenarios. Pred- dy deliv- ers.

When Ford teamed up with Cosworth Engineering to breathe life onto its humdrum Sierra, few knew it would be the birth of a mo- toring legend. Through circuit racing and supercar-humbling on- road ability, the 1985 Sierra RS Cosworth quickly became a house- hold name. A practical four-seater boasting 204bhp from its two- liter turbocharged power plant, the RS Cosworth's massive perfor- mance was equaled only by an extroverted rear wing designed for high-speed stability. While motorsport machines scooped innu- merable victories and increasingly powerful engines, in 1987 Ford homologated a yet-more-spectacular Sierra - the 224bhp RS500. It instantly became a desirable collector's piece. The restrained four-door Sierra Sapphire RS Cosworth of 1988 was Ford's vision of a 150mph executive express; two years later, its four-wheel- drive successor returned the firm to rallying. By 1992, Ford had squeezed the 4x4's running gear into a shorter Escort body, com- plete with 227bhp engine and ever-more-aggressive aerodynamic aids. The limited-edition Monte Carlo came in 1994, followed by the final RS Cosworth - a revised Escort with smaller turbocharger and user-friendly appeal. Production ceased in 1996. Today, each model has a loyal following among motorsport fans and fast Fords enthusiasts. And as the cars become increasingly sought-after, so too does the pursuit of perfection. This book examines RS Cos- worth authenticity, outlining standard specifications alongside in- depth color photography of outstanding examples of the breed. From body panels and trim to turbochargers and tires; from interi- or fabrics and paint schemes to shock absorbers and stickers, Ford's factory-original fitments are covered in comprehensive de- tail.

Affective Health and Masculinities in South Africa explores how different masculinities modulate substance use, interpersonal vio- lence, suicidality, and AIDS as well as recovery cross-culturally. With a focus on three male protagonists living in very distinct ur- ban areas of Cape Town, this comparative ethnography shows that men's struggles to become invulnerable increase vulnerabili- ty. Through an analysis of masculinities as social assemblages, the study shows how affective health problems are tied to modern individualism rather than African 'tradition' that has become a cliché in Eurocentric gender studies. Affective health is conceptu- alized as a balancing act between autonomy and connectivity that after colonialism and apartheid has become compromised through the imperative of self-reliance. This book provides a rare perspective on young men's vulnerability in everyday life that may affect the reader and spark discussion about how masculini- ties in relationships shape physical and psychological health. Moreover, it shows how men change in the face of distress in ways that may look different than global health and gender-trans- formative approaches envision. Thick descriptions of actual events over the life course make the study accessible to both gra- duate and undergraduate students in the social sciences. Con- tributing to current debates on mental health and masculinity, this volume will be of interest to scholars from various disciplines including anthropology, gender studies, African studies, psycholo- gy, and global health.
