The role of project sponsor is critical in large projects during the development of the business case, for governance and assurance and as the person who decides that the project should continue or close at any stage. Yet in many organizations the skills of the sponsor are often assumed; he or she will be a senior manager who may well have no practical project experience at all. David West explains the roles and skills that lie at the heart of effective sponsorship. The sponsor acts as a lynchpin between the Board and the Project Manager, communicating and translating requirements downwards and resource needs, progress and constraints back upwards. An over-zealous sponsor may be tempted to assume some of the project manager's responsibilities, whilst an ineffective sponsor may be invisible, leaving the project manager uninformed by, and unrepresented to, the Board. Project Sponsorship includes exercises, examples and case histories from the real world of projects. It is an essential guide for anyone assuming the important role of managing the business case of the project and will help you ensure that the organization is 'doing the right things' as well as 'doing things right'.

Exploring how design can be used for good—prompting self-reflection, igniting the imagination, and affecting positive social change. Good design provides solutions to problems. It improves our buildings, medical equipment, clothing, and kitchen utensils, among other objects. But what if design could also improve societal problems by prompting positive ideological change? In this book, Bruce and Stephanie Tharp survey recent critical design practices and propose a new, more inclusive field of socially minded practice: discursive design. While many consider good design to be unobtrusive, intuitive, invisible, and undemanding intellectually, discursive design instead targets the intellect, prompting self-reflection and igniting the imagination. Discursive design (derived from "discourse") expands the boundaries of how we can use design—how objects are, in effect, good(s) for thinking. Discursive Design invites us to see objects in a new light, to understand more than their basic form and utility. Beyond the different foci of critical design, speculative design, design fiction, interrogative design, and adversarial design, Bruce and Stephanie Tharp establish a more comprehensive, unifying vision as well as innovative methods. They not only offer social criticism but also explore how objects can, for example, be used by counselors in therapy sessions, by town councils to facilitate a pre-vote discussions, by activists seeking engagement, and by institutions and industry to better understand the values, beliefs, and attitudes of those whom they serve. Discursive design sparks new ways of thinking, and it is only through new thinking that our sociocultural futures can change. MLM, or Multi-Level-Marketing, was born when common goals and common minds came together and realized they were stronger as a team than apart. This revolutionary idea galvanized the business world, creating numerous opportunities for personal wealth. Some were decent, others not so much - but they all shared one thing... potential. To put it simply, Multi-Level-Marketing IS potential - a huge one, IF you know how to leverage it. Most people enter into a business opportunity fired up and ready to earn, yet find the daily drudge too much for too little and quit, wasting their time and their valuable money. Why? They forgot the most important part of MLM, the downline. Your downline IS your income stream, in fact, it is the real reason why MLM works, and how the business model can literally make people millionaires. This guide brings the focus back to where it needs to be, the Downline. It reveals the secrets and tools you need to know to leverage this incredibly powerful facet, and make it work for you. If you want to secure your future and succeed in MLM, then you NEED to understand the Downline and you NEED this book. Your tomorrow starts today, and with the proper guidance and knowledge, it can be brighter than you ever thought possible.

To begin with, I was caught by surprise. I was doing my usual, which was working at the daily grind of my slow, but steady home business (of publishing books) when I got this email about a new release coming out. But it said nothing more than "Dillard was releasing something new, and did I want to be part of it?" I knew of Mike Dillard from his days in Magnetic Sponsoring. This is where he "almost single-handedly revolutionized the Network Marketing industry" - simply by introducing them to Attraction Marketing, and the Self-Liquidating Offer ("Funded Proposal") After that, he'd gone on to build something called the Elevation Group which I hadn't paid much attention to, since it was beyond my price range. Then I got another email saying how to login to the affiliate members area - and once I got in, I started reviewing his descriptions about what was being offered... The reason I'm finally publishing this - is so you can learn from someone who's been there, drunk the Kool-Aid, and survived.

Mitosis in sea urchin eggs was retarded following their exposure to magnetic fields higher than 70,000 gauss which had gradients greater than 4200 gauss/centimeter. The degree of retardation was correlated simultaneously to both the field strength and the field gradient. Division delay in fields ranging from 100,000 to a maximum of 120,000 gauss was independent of the gradient. Differences in division delay were found which may be a reflection of the differential migration of oxygen and nitrogen due to their para- and diamagnetic properties. An hypothesis is given concerning the biochemical processes affected by magnetic fields. (Author).

Dimensional changes (strain) along the three principal crystal axes of the antiferromagnet $\text{CsMnCl}_3 \cdot 2\text{H}_2\text{O}$ are studied as a function of magnetic field and temperature in the antiferromagnetic, spin flopped, and paramagnetic phases. Changes in dimensions through the phase transitions between the magnetic states are examined. By applying the molecular field model and utilizing all available information, magnetic Cl3-2H2O are determined. ic refrigeration cycle is
