Faith is a quality greatly encouraged in the Dharma – but not belief-based faith. In Buddhism, faith is said to arise through listening, thinking and meditating. In his usual, measured way, Lama Tsering is suggesting I meditate, instead of allowing myself to succumb to the swirling negativity of my mind. The faith in Amitabha of Pure Land Buddhism, the faith in the Lotus Sutra of Nichiren Buddhism, and the faith in deities of Tibetan tantra are like this also. Ultimately these divine beings and sutras are upaya, skillful means, to guide our leaps in the dark, and ultimately they are us. Just believing in them or worshiping them is not the point.

From the Buddhist point of view, faith is not the belief in the unknown, the unintelligible or the impossible but it is the gift of inner confidence that emphasizes reason and understanding through actual experience and direct seeing. Confidence is not blind faith but becomes confirmed in everyday life through practice. By seeing more clearly, with the help of the teachings and practices, we open our hearts and entrust ourselves to the infinite and interconnected Life and Light of the universe.
