Charles Baudelaire | Encyclopedia.com

On Wine and Hashish - Charles P. Baudelaire [Amazon.com] Du vin et du haschisch (1851) was first published in Le Messager de l'Assemblée, a French periodical. The article served as preliminary study for Les Paradis artificiels (1860). Baudelaire outlines the potential role of artificial stimulants, taking for his starting point for the section on wine Hoffmann's prescriptions from the Kreisleriana for particular types of wines to enhance particular types of musical experience.

Initially composed for newspaper publication and inspired by Thomas De Quincey's Confessions of an Opium Eater, Charles Baudelaire's intriguing essays take a remarkably stark look at the use and effects of drink and drugs. Along the way he asserts the ambivalence of memory, urges a union of willpower and sensual pleasure, and claims that wine and hashish bring about an escape from narrative time.

Among the earliest artistic descriptions of the hallucinogenic experience in European literature, the four pieces in this volume document Gautier's and Baudelaire's own involvement in the Club of Assassins, who met under the auspices of Dr Moreau to investigate the mind-enhancing effects of hashish, wine and opium. As well as providing an absorbing account of [...]
