Persepolis was the ancient capital of Persia, or modern-day Iran. Demolished by Alexander the Great in 330 BCE, its ruins are a reminder of the strength and longevity of Persian culture despite numerous invasions and regime changes.

By using the name of the ancient city as the title for her autobiographical graphic memoir, author Marjane Satrapi draws a parallel between the destruction of the ancient capital and the Iranian Revolution of 1979.

The graphic novel, Persepolis, by Marjane Satrapi follows her life from ages ten to fourteen during the Islamic Revolution. It begins with all women being told to wear veils. Then Marji's French school is changed to segregate the boys and girls. Marji decides she wants to be a prophet because she sees many problems with the world that she thinks she can fix.
