Section 1 Animal World Gate

The Town Gate, also known as the Checkpoint, is a building in Animal Crossing: Wild World and Animal Crossing: City Folk which allows the players to visit other people's town, similar to the Train Station from Animal Crossing. The building replaces both the Train Station and the Police Station from the original Animal Crossing, since both Booker and Copper are guards at the gate.

All organisms are made out of microscopic functional units, called cells. Multi-cellular organisms have many cells that make up the whole organism. These include plants and animals. Other cells are single-celled, which are just one cell. These are too small to see with just the human eye, so we have to use microscopes to view them.
