Stock market basics. The stock market is made up of exchanges, like the New York Stock Exchange and the Nasdaq. Stocks are listed on a specific exchange, which brings buyers and sellers together and acts as a market for the shares of those stocks. The exchange tracks the supply and demand — and directly related, the price — of each stock.

This allows an investor to look at a stock and know that it is worth, for instance, $40 per share. This gives each investor the freedom to determine when the market has undervalued a security, increasing their long-term returns substantially, or overvalued it, making it a poor investment candidate.
