International financial transactions are based on several financing philosophies, whose application is affected by the course of economic growth and development within an individual national economy. This is demonstrated by the evolution of the financing technique known as International structured trade & commodity finance (STCF). STCF is "cross-border trade finance in emerging markets where the intention is to get repaid by the liquidation of a flow of commodities."

IFC's Structured Trade and Commodity Finance initiative (STCF) is a collaborative solution to maintain and extend the availability of financing for the trade of critical commodities in emerging markets. STCF is a flexible instrument allowing IFC to engage in the most challenging markets with systemic financing gaps in cooperation with private sector banking partners.

Structured commodity finance (SCF) as covered by Trade Finance is split into three main commodity groups: metals & mining, energy, and soft commodities (agricultural crops). SCF is a financing technique utilised by a number of different companies, primarily producers, trading houses and lenders. Commodity producers stand to benefit from SCF by receiving financing to ensure cash flow is available for maximum output with the intention of repaying the loan once exports begin.

Being in a stand-alone structure means that there is mitigation in relation to any volatility in demand, supply or pricing. Commodity producers may be opened to new markets when lending is advanced to them. Liquidity and risk mitigation elements are provided to produce, buy or sell product.
