The Idea of America: Reflections on the Birth of the ...

The idea of America is shaped entirely by Americans' belief that they are entitled to both freedom and liberty, two principles America was founded on.

The Washington Post Book World named THE IDEA THAT IS AMERICA one of the best books of 2007 When Army Captain Ian Fishback decided to blow the whistle on prisoner abuse in Iraq and Afghanistan, he posed the central question facing America in the new century: \"Will we confront danger in order to preserve our ideals, or will courage and commitment to individual rights wither.

America was indeed an idea, or rather it was the culmination of a set of ideas, an ideology. The ideology we know of today as the Western Civilization. Having its roots in the axis between Jerusalem, Athens, and Rome, Western Civilization is an amalgam of many ideas, some of which would not be considered Western today.

The Republican party was founded in 1854 as an anti-slavery party dedicated to the principles put forward in the Declaration of Independence - particularly the \"self-evident\" truth that \"all men are created equal.\". Donald Trump's Republican party is today abandoning this idea-what we often call the idea of America-for the idea of the Confederacy. This may appear absurd at first glance.

Opinion | America, the Idea, Is Lost - The New York Times

That's what Democracy in America is about: the volunteer spirit of Americans who came together to create communal life. The American dynamism of the 1830s was just a working out of an idea that was clear to those who were drafting the Constitution a half century earlier, and that should still be our idea today. The American Idea in Peril

As an Idea, America Began in 1620, Not 1776 - Foundation ...

The United States of America began with the conviction that a nation should be founded upon truth. Not simply values or preferences, but upon truths. Self-evident truths that were true, are true, and will remain true no matter the time, the place, or the culture. And central among these truths is the belief that all men are created equal.
