The Unintended Reader | This 1986 study of Manon Lescaut draws on various debates in the fields of psychoanalysis, feminism and literary criticism. It has two principal aims: to analyse this story of a young man's passion for a femme fatale as it is presented by the narrator; and to suggest ways in which feminist criticism can help explain how the text operates.

Feminism is about advocating for women's lives and improving women's lives, so anything that's going to hurt women's lives is part of a feminist project. The need to address and tackle climate change is presented in the mainstream media as something that affects 'us', all humans, equally, as if we're all in the same boat, the same peril, the same danger.
